Go not far in the land of light! A little while by the golden gate, Lest that I lose you out of sight; Wait my darling, wait;

Forever now from your happy eyes Life's scenic picture has passed away— You have entered into realities, And I am yet at the play!

Yet at the play of time-through all, Thinking of you, and your higher estate.
A little while, and the curtain will fall— Wait, my darling, wait.

Mine is a dreary part to do—

A mask of mirth on a mourning browThe chance approval—the flower or two, Are nothing-nothing now!

The last sad act is drawing on—
A little while by the golden gate
Of the holy heaven to which you are gone, Wait, my darling, wait.

HOW A FRENCH BARON'S DAUGHTER RAN AWAY TO LONDON.

The romantic adventures of a young Frenchwoman of noble birth furnish material for a curious chapter of personal history in the latest English papers. Mademoiselle Marguerite Frigante de la Tour, the daughter of the Baron de la Tour, is the heroine of the affair. She is only sixteen years of age, but seems to possess spirit and enterprise beyond her Early in June, Mademoiselle expressed an earnest desire to visit London for the purpose of seeing the wonders of the In-ternational Exhibition, but the mandate of a stern duenna of an aunt, with whom she lived at Passy, forebade the journey. Not to be baulked in this way, the girl, want discally to work to pay the ball went directly to work to prepare herself for running away. She cut off her hair, exchanged her clothing for a suit of male garments, purchased a fashionable "tile and a walking-stick, cluded the vigilance of the aunt, and landed safely in London. with three hundred frances and six gold Napoleons in her pocket. She afterwards confessed that she had taken this money from her aunt. She visited the Exhibition, purchased the regular guide-books, enjoyed the spectacle from day to day, enjoyed the spectacle from day to day, and had an excellent time generally, until one day her sex was suspected by the landlord of the lodging-house where she stopped, and immediately the police were on her track. The tipstrayes told her that she must have disguised herself for some unlawful purpose, and in spite of her segments to the track. of her assurances to the contrary, insis-ted upon their theory, and forthwith carried her before a magistrate. Here comes the second part of the adventure :

Alderman Besley said he could not part with her until he was sure she would be taken care of, and he therefore sent her to Newgate, with a request to the Governor to accommodate her in the pri-vate apartments of the jail, and to pro-vide her with apparel suitable to her sex and position. It was stated in court that the girl had refused to take any nourishment, although she appeared contented with her temporary abode.

On the following morning the case was again heard. A barrrister named Ludlow came forward to prove Mademoiselle's identity, announcing himself as an old friend of the De la Tour family, and recognizing Marguerite. He had, however, finished his statement when a new scene occurred which we find thus reported in the Londo

"Mr. Ludlow was followed by a foreign looking gentleman, who came forward and stated that he was the Baron de la Tour, and that Mademoiselle Marguerite Frigante de la Tour was his daughter. We prefer to continue the record in the words of our reporters, for as a psychological, study it is still more interesting than as an incident of

Ludlow exclaimed with great surprise that he thought the Baron was in de America.

"The Baron said be had been there, but he had just returned, and heard of his daughter's extraordinary freak through a

"Alderman Wilson asked the Baron if he really had been to America at all?

"The Baron said he had already communicated with Mr. Ludlow in reference to his not being now in America, and he must therefore decline to answer questions from the alderman on that point. He had a right to go to America and return if he liked, without being interrogated here upon it.

"Alderman Wilson said certainly; but what did he propose to do with his daughter if she were given up to him?

"The Baron said he would keep her in Landon for a few days until he ascertained.

"The Baron said he would keep her in London for a few days, until he ascertained what were her motives for leaving her aunt's house in Passy.

"Alderman Besley asked him if he had any accommodation for a young lady, as he understood Maiemoisell's mother, the Baroness, was living at Versailles.

"The Baron said he was residing in a private house, where his daughter would be properly provided for."

Meantime the aunt had come over from France in chase of the runaway. Marguerite fell upon her neck bathed in tears, the claim of the Baron to his daughter was acknowledged, the barrister Ludlow was soouted as a designing person who had been intimate with the wrong family, and the curtain fell upon a scene which appears to have been plums to the reporters.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

The sciences of Chemistry and Medicine have been taxed their utmost to produce this best, most perfect purgative which is known to man. Innumerable proofs are shown that these Pllis have virtues which surpass in excellence the ordinary medicines, and that they win unprecedentedly upon the esteem of all men. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. Their penetrating properties stimulate the vital activities of the body, remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood, and expel disease. They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow distemper, stimulate sluggish or disordered organs into their natural action. 2nd impart healthy tone with strength to the whole system. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are at the same time, in diminished doses, the safest and best physic that can be employed for children. Being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take; and being purgly vegetable, are free from any risk of harm. Cures have been made which surpass belief were they not substantiated by men of such exalted position and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth. Many seminent clergymen and physicians have lent their names to certify, to the public the reliability of my remedies, while others have sent me the assurances of their conviction that my Preparations contribute immensely to the relief of my afflicted, suffering fellow-men.

The Agent below named is pleased to furnish gratism y American Almanac, containing, directions for their use and certificates of their cures, of the following complaints:

chase and work paying mines, by dealing with this Company.

We respectfully solicit the attention of all who have mineral lands, for sale to send us a statement of the same, describing the kind of minerals on their lands, the number of acres, the location, and the lowest cash price they are willing to take for said lands. We shall work only such mines as pay largely, but shall open and prove most of the lands we sell. The books for subscription to the stock are now open at the office of the Company, Main street, northwest corner of Locust, over Merchants' Bank, entrance No. 21 Locust street. All who feel an interest in this business, and have money, will do well to call and subscribe.
